Presidential kin and district infrastructure budgets

Does the budget follow need or political power?

Philippines | Research cut-off: 28 October 2026

District rankings, historical evidence, methods and links to the original records. Prepared as a downloadable companion for Morning Coffee Thoughts readers.

Research credit: Compilation and analysis prepared for Morning Coffee Thoughts. Budget records: DPWH, published by PCIJ. Historical reporting is credited throughout. This is an analysis of published records, not a government report or a claim that MCT obtained the underlying documents.

Finding: Some presidential relatives represent districts receiving exceptionally large allocations. The universal claim that being related to the president makes a congressman the largest recipient does not hold. The answer changes with the budget category, year and political position. This dossier documents concentration, not a causal estimate of family favoritism or evidence that allocated funds were stolen.

What was reconstructed

The 2023-2025 source covers 253 distinct district labels. Rows repeated across district engineering offices were summed into their legislative districts. The 17 regional files for 2026 contain 254 distinct district labels. Amounts headed “Php '000” were multiplied by 1,000. Ranks use 1 plus the number of districts with a larger amount; ties share rank.

Scope: DPWH capital outlays for operations, excluding foreign-assisted projects (FAPs), based on the General Appropriations Acts. These are infrastructure appropriations, not all government expenditure in a district, personal congressional operating budgets, cash paid to representatives, or actual disbursements. Nationwide and regionwide lines are excluded from district rankings.

Validation: The 2023-2025 district sums plus the source's regionwide and nationwide lines equal its annual grand totals exactly. All 17 regional totals for 2026 equal the extracted district sums plus their regionwide lines. District boundaries and labels change between years, so a national longitudinal merge requires a crosswalk; the focal districts below retain their labels.

Year	District-only total (P)	Source reconciliation
2023	840,096,989,000	₱862,771,300,000 including regionwide/nationwide
2024	957,086,712,000	₱972,296,616,000 including regionwide/nationwide
2025	1,024,886,474,000	₱1,041,038,858,000 including regionwide/nationwide
2026	460,433,669,000	All 17 regional files reconciled; district total only

Presidential-family cases and a transition comparison

District / representative	2023 rank	2024 rank	2025 rank	2023-25 total (P)	Period rank	2026 (P)	2026 rank
Leyte 1st / Martin Romualdez, presidential cousin	1	1	3	57,516,868,000	1	5,859,365,000	1
Ilocos Norte 1st / Sandro Marcos, presidential son	3	3	5	39,204,060,000	5	3,184,191,000	22
Ilocos Norte 2nd / Angelo Marcos Barba, presidential cousin	43	99	27	16,125,021,000	44	2,282,236,000	69
Davao City 1st / Paolo Duterte, former president's son	40	245	252	6,892,166,000	170	512,119,000	244

Leyte 1st leads the three-year total, although it ranks third in 2025 behind both listed Mindoro districts. Sandro Marcos's district ranks fifth in this broader category. Angelo Marcos Barba's district ranks 44th over the period, a direct counterexample to an automatic first-place family advantage. Davao City 1st falls from 40th in 2023 to 252nd in 2025. That is an observed decline after Rodrigo Duterte left the presidency, not proof of its cause.

Historical evidence and category boundaries

- Arroyo period: PCIJ's 2009 investigation reported ₱342.65 million in 86 public-works contracts for Dato Arroyo's district during 15 months from July 2007, and ₱808.79 million for Mikey Arroyo's district over four years since 2004. These unequal observation windows and contract values cannot establish a common national allocation ranking. Source.
- Aquino III period, 2012: Gerardo Sicat's contemporary analysis of DBM records lists Ruben Ecleo Jr. at ₱137 million, Thelma Almario at ₱128 million and Dakila Carlo Cua at ₱120 million as the highest district PDAF release recipients. It records zero for Dato and Mikey Arroyo. Releases could include unused previous-year allocations. These are secondary-reported PDAF releases, not a reconstructed total infrastructure ranking. Source.
- Duterte period, 2020-2022: DPWH officials confirmed an approximately ₱51-billion infrastructure figure for Davao City 1st in congressional proceedings. A DPWH project book described by the Philippine Information Agency enumerates 710 projects totaling ₱49.8 billion. The exact scope difference has not been reconciled here. Neither amount is all flood-control spending. A complete nationwide 2020-2022 comparison has not been reconstructed. PIA account of the project book; hearing report.
- Marcos period, 2023-2025 allocables: PCIJ reports Sandro Marcos first at ₱15.8 billion and Martin Romualdez second at ₱14.4 billion. This narrower category differs from the capital-outlay totals reconstructed here. Do not add these figures to district capital outlays, which would risk double counting. Source.
- Proposed 2027 budget: PCIJ reports no proposed Basic Infrastructure Program projects for Leyte 1st, despite Romualdez's continuing family relationship. This is a proposal and a particular program, not zero total DPWH funding or enacted 2027 spending. The department cites implementation requirements as relevant to project selection. Source.

What this research establishes and what still needs checking

Established within the stated scope: The published DPWH records allow district allocation rankings for 2023-2026. These comparisons show where funding was concentrated. They do not, by themselves, explain why a district received its allocation.

1. Records not yet obtained or reconciled. This research has not reconstructed a complete, comparable nationwide ranking for every earlier administration. Individual amounts and some reported rankings were found, but the underlying historical datasets have not all been retrieved and reconciled. Records not obtained are not necessarily nonexistent. Earlier rankings could be established if sufficient records become available. Agency archives, congressional submissions, existing research datasets and formal records requests remain routes to pursue; this research has not exhausted them.

Historical coverage gaps are documented. CODE-NGO's 2009-2010 monitoring report says its eventual 2008-2009 dataset lacked Bicol and some Mindanao coverage. That partial dataset cannot establish a national winner. CODE-NGO report.

2. Explanations not yet tested. Whether kinship itself affected funding can be investigated, but has not been established here. A stronger study would compare districts before, during and after a relative's presidency, using a verified roster of relatives serving simultaneously in the House, a defined degree of kinship and comparable districts. It would account for House leadership, population, poverty, road inventory, disaster exposure and major national projects. Budget amendments, project requests and correspondence could help explain who sought funding and how decisions were made. District boundaries need a consistent crosswalk; party-list representatives need separate treatment.

3. Claims the figures cannot establish on their own. A large allocation does not establish improper favoritism, personal receipt, theft or project delivery. Such claims need separate evidence about selection, procurement, implementation, payments and any personal benefit. Allocation, allotment release, obligation, contract award and disbursement must remain separate measures. A project located in one district may serve other provinces. No missing historical value is treated as zero.
